Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-7 are allowable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-3, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over De Gray et al. (3,325,262).

De Gray et al. teach glycol borate amine salts derived from the same compound structure core as applicants' claim 1. Note the glycol borates amine salts possess microbocide activity. (See column 1, lines 10-17).

Art Unit: 1614

The instant invention differs from the cited reference in that the cited reference does not teach the application preferred compounds derived from structure 1. However, one skilled in the art would have assumed that the all compounds derived from the chemical core structure 1 of applicants' claim 1 obviously possess the same antimicrobial activity in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Claims 1-3, 8 and 9 are allowed.

The remaining references listed on the enclosed PTO-892 are cited to show the state of the art.
